Pastor's Desk

The Priesthood of Jesus Christ

One of the greatest blessings in my years as a priest is that I have always had the support and brotherhood of working with brother priests in the same assignment. The value of having a priest perspective is especially invaluable when the priest(s) are a part of the same situation. When priest work together for a common goal, good things happen not just for them but for the people of God.

Some people have asked to include which priest is celebrating Weekend Masses identified in the bulletin. We have begun doing that and you will find the initials listed for each priest in the bulletin (each priest initial starts with "f" to avoid confusing the priest initials with the initials for our parishes.) Please note, there may be changes to the priests' schedule so the initials may not line up if there is a last-minute change to one our schedules. Thank you for your understanding in advance.

The priests have returned to our weekly rotation. While there were some benefits to priest pausing the rotation, there is more benefit to maintaining the priest rotation for people and priests alike. These reasons include:

1.) The priest rotation most closely reflects what we are trying to build as St. Joseph, Pillar of Families. We desire for the people in our Family of Parishes to see themselves as members of the larger Church and as members of St. Joseph Family of Parishes. This reality is fostered by priest being a part of each of our communities and not just affiliated with one church in our Family of Parishes. The alternating of priest helps to build across the Family of Parishes and unity is what our Lord desired. (John 17:21)

2.) The priest rotation is good for the people of God in St. Joseph Pillar of Families. First, it is important to recognize that each priest is a priest of Jesus Christ. While each priest has his own personality, each priest has been ordained to the eternal priesthood that does not pass away. (Hebrews 7:24) The cycling of priests enables people at each parish to become familiar with multiple priests and while they may have a particular priest with whom they have a connection, they will always be afforded the opportunity to grow to know and appreciate all priests. This in turn aids in helping the people of God to welcome and appreciate each human person, which is required for us to evangelize all within our parish boundaries. (Matthew 28:19-20)

3.) It is good for the priests, just as we can get too attached to things and people so a priest can get attached to a particular church and it is good for us to learn to appreciate and know each of our communities. I have personally formed friendships with people at each church in St. Joseph, Pillar of Families and it was sad to not see many of them throughout the season of Advent. Jesus and St. Paul both formed relationship in various communities throughout their ministry, we priests have the opportunity to emulate this attitude and method via the rotation of priests. (Matthew 4:23-25 & Acts of the Apostles)

4.) The rotation of priests also creates a more even workload for the priests of our Family. (Galatians 6:2-5) Each parish does not require the same amount or same kind of work. By each of us taking a week at each parish every four weeks it allows for us to have free evenings for marriage prep or other meetings on weeks when we are at a parish that does not have as much going on in the evening. The rotation also allows for marriages and funerals to be more evenly shared between the four priests. The examples could go on. Thus, alternating priests allows each of us to have a more similar workload and for each of us to have a more similar experience to help us have more fruitful conversation about what we need to focus on as priests.

5.) Having multiple priests involved in all four parishes helps young men to see that there is no "cookie cutter" priests. Each priest manifests the priesthood of Jesus Christ in a unique way. (John 15:15) This in turn makes the possibility of priesthood more relatable to young men, helping to foster future vocations.

Thank you to the many benefactors of our Family of Parishes. Your generosity makes it possible for our parishes to continue forming disciples. Your time, talent, and treasure are truly appreciated. Thanks and God bless!

Peace in Christ,

Fr. Jarred Kohn

THE VICAR'S CORNER FR. AARON HESS

Now that the joy and light of Christmas is quickly leaving in the rearview mirror, we get to fully embrace the drab, cold, and gray world that is the middle of winter in Ohio. And this is easily one of the most difficult times of the year for many people, as it can affect so many emotions. In these moments, we have to be even more intentional with our time and allow it to be spent well, certainly with prayer first as well as time with family and the normal time devoted to work. But there are times each day and throughout the week where we can and should take time away from the normal requirements and allow ourselves the opportunity to relax and enjoy holy leisure.

Unfortunately, though, this is much harder for many people than what we think. Some people are hard workers and put in constant hours on their job, and then when they get home they are always working around the house, and they are too busy to do anything else life-giving. And this can very quickly lead to feeling burnt out and tired constantly. On the other side, some people get done with their job and other responsibilities and then "crash," sitting down in front of a television or their phone and mindlessly zoning out to Social Media or the latest sitcom on streaming sites, and this can quickly lead to lethargy and a lack of caring. But true and holy leisure should be something that doesn't shut off our minds. It should be time spent that brings joy and life and energy to your heart and spirit. Obviously there are tons of ways that this can be done, but I want to list off just a few ideas. You could begin to pour into a hobby, whether knitting, woodworking, sketching, working on cars, it could be tons of different things. Your family or friends could also enjoy you picking up some cooking or baking skills that you can share with them – try out some new recipes for fun, or challenge yourself by buying something different from the store and figuring out the best way to cook it. You can also take that time to learn more about a topic of importance or interest: history, genealogy and your ancestors, or even more about the Catholic faith. You can always find some great resources for this last idea at places like Peter's Pence Catholic Library in Sidney, or Silver Cross Bookstore in Ft. Loramie, to name a few. One thing I've been doing lately too is trying to improve my Spanish, so even something like downloading Duolingo as an easy way to start learning any language could be a fun and productive use of time! Another idea is to maybe reach out to some people you haven't talked to in a long time. I would suggest writing a letter: we all know how exciting it is to get real physical mail. And what a great and thoughtful way to reconnect with old friends or relatives that live across the country that you don't get to see as frequently.

All of these are just suggestions, and there are tons more that we can look at. But it doesn't have to be much of anything – maybe you just want to go to a local coffee shop, get a hot drink, and sit by the window on your own and relax while watching cars drive by. The encouragement for all of us in this is to be intentional in taking that time for ourselves as well as using that time in a fruitful, mindful way. Through this, we become more well-rounded humans with more life and joy in our normal, everyday lives.
